Re : Consultant or Project Leader, Insurance

BCG's Insurance Practice works across the full range of top-management issues, from reshaping finance and risk functions to capital management and value creation. That intersection of regulatory depth, finance transformation, and delivery discipline is where I've spent my career.

At CNP, I automated the projected financial production across asset classes (P&L, cash flows) and the Solvency II investment reporting: €350bn in assets, SimCorp Dimension from design to go-live, delivered in 18 months. That mission sits squarely in the finance and risk redesign work your Insurance Practice takes on for clients. At Coface, I rolled out IFRS 9 in stages over four years: successive POCs, ECL methodology, accounting schemes, UAT, coordination with the depositary bank CACEIS. I also built the investment Data Warehouse from scratch there, defining the fields, table structures, and input/output controls, while managing a team of 16. Four years at SCOR, two of them as chief transformation officer of the investment function, gave me direct exposure to capital management and value creation questions at group level, which maps closely to what your practice does for insurance and reinsurance clients.

I completed the full examination track of the Centre d'Études Actuarielles in 2004, which grounds the technical side of this work in actuarial and finance topics across life, P&C, and reinsurance. I operate as an independent consultant today. Nevertheless, I am perfectly open to a permanent role, either directly or after an initial engagement period, given how well this position fits my background in insurance and in finance.

I would be happy to discuss how this experience applies to BCG's current client work in finance and risk transformation.

Best regards,

Xavier Robitaille
