I bring 25 years of insurance and finance expertise to roles where technical depth, regulatory discipline, and execution clarity matter most. I've spent my career in the spaces where finance, actuarial, and operations collide—closing gaps that most consultants miss because they lack the domain grounding to see them.

My last three mandates illustrate the pattern. I rebuilt the finance operating model for a €2B+ insurance group, restructuring controls and closing processes that cut month-end timeline by 35% while tightening audit findings. On a regulatory reporting overhaul, I led the design and delivery of IFRS 17 implementation across three entities, bridging the gap between actuarial models and CFO office requirements in ways that saved the client months of rework. Most recently, I designed and launched a PMO governance framework for a finance transformation program—not the typical playbook, but one built on what actually sticks in risk-sensitive environments.

The honest thing: I'm built for mission work and interim leadership roles, not traditional employment. That's where my pace and judgment add the most value. I thrive on delivery pressure and messy stakeholder dynamics. I'm less suited to steady-state, siloed work.

I'm open to what you're building. Let's talk about what you need and whether my profile fits the timing and scope.
