I bring 25 years of pure insurance and finance expertise—specifically in the transformation and operating model redesigns that matter most to your market expansion. I've spent my career at the intersection of technical depth, delivery discipline, and regulatory complexity, which is exactly where Principal Consultant roles create real value.

Over the past five years, I've led three major transformations for French insurers and bancassureurs: a €15M finance operating model overhaul (closing process, controls architecture, reporting stack), a full-scope PMO deployment for a digital platform launch, and a post-acquisition integration that consolidated three legacy systems into one. Each involved the same stakeholder orchestration you need—Finance, Actuariat, IT, Risk, Operations—and each delivered on time. I document outcomes, not activity.

What matters for Capco: I've done exactly the work you're growing into. I know the prudential requirements, the Pacte landscape, the due diligence playbook. I understand why M&A in insurance fails (99% of the time it's execution, not strategy). I'm also used to operating inside larger firms—I can mesh with your One Capco model and hand off smoothly.

The practical thing: I'm currently independent. I like it, but I'm genuinely open to the right CDI role. This one fits. Your market bet in France is serious, your client set is real, and you need someone who can move fast without learning insurance on the job.
