Dear Hiring Team,

For 25 years, I've worked exclusively in insurance and finance—building regulatory reporting systems, redesigning finance processes, and steering complex transformations where compliance, technical depth, and delivery discipline converge. This role at Deloitte resonates because it sits in that exact intersection.

Your need is clear: insurers face relentless pressure to optimize governance, embed data controls, and navigate shifting regulatory landscapes. I've spent my career solving those problems. As interim Finance Manager and PMO lead, I've led Solvency II reporting overhauls for mid-cap insurers, redesigned finance closing processes to meet tighter regulatory deadlines, and aligned actuarial, finance, and IT teams around single-source-of-truth data architectures. One recent engagement: I structured a finance transformation program for a €2B insurance group—mapping 47 process flows, identifying €3.2M in efficiency gains, and implementing controls that passed full regulatory audit. That work taught me how to translate CFRO complexity into actionable roadmaps.

I should be direct: I've operated as an independent consultant for five years. I thrive in that model—it sharpened my ability to hit the ground fast and deliver without organizational friction. A Deloitte engagement appeals because your scale, client relationships, and methodological rigor would amplify what I already do well. I'm intentional about moving back into a structured team environment when the role and culture warrant it.

I'm fluent in German and comfortable working in Cologne. I'd welcome a conversation about how my insurance expertise and delivery track record could add value to your Assurance Financial Services team.

Best regards,

Xavier Robitaille
