Dear KPMG Consulting Team,

I am writing to express my interest in the Manager position for Asset Management & Alternative Investment Transformation.

For 25 years, I have worked exclusively in finance and insurance transformation—the precise intersection where your clients operate. I've spent the last decade leading large-scale transformation programs as a senior consultant: redesigning operating models, embedding governance frameworks, and delivering complex regulatory and technology-enabled changes across asset management, insurance, and banking sectors. This experience translates directly to the multi-stakeholder advisory and project leadership your role demands.

Two examples illustrate the fit. First, I led a 18-month transformation program for a Tier-1 asset manager, restructuring their finance function across three countries while maintaining regulatory reporting during migration to a new platform. The work involved aligning executives, PMO discipline, cross-functional teams, and technical teams—the same blend required at KPMG. Second, I served as interim Finance Manager and AMOA lead for a major insurance group redesigning their CFO office and reporting infrastructure; the role combined strategic advisory, hands-on delivery accountability, and talent coaching—exactly what your job description outlines.

I bring three specific strengths your team needs. One: I understand the language of both business leaders and technical teams in asset management, without needing translation. Two: I deliver. I don't theorize—I close projects on budget and on time, even under regulatory pressure. Three: I mentor effectively; my track record includes promoting analysts into senior roles and building high-performing mixed teams.

One honest gap: I am currently structured as an independent consultant. I am actively seeking a permanent Manager role to return to a scaled organization. If KPMG's culture of problem-solving and professional growth resonates, I am ready to move quickly.

I'd welcome a conversation about how my 25 years of depth in your target sectors can accelerate your clients' transformation agendas.

Best regards,

Xavier Robitaille
