I bring 25 years of finance and insurance expertise directly applicable to your Alternative Investments implementation work. My background spans regulatory reporting, complex operational transformations, and delivery at scale—the exact skill set needed to guide major financial institutions through SimCorp Dimension® projects while managing stakeholder alignment and technical complexity.

Most recently, I've spent five years as an interim finance manager and PMO lead for major insurers and asset managers, designing processes that bridge finance, operations, and compliance. I've led the delivery of multi-year transformation programs where the real value came from understanding both the technical requirements and the business constraints—exactly what your clients face when implementing alternative investment solutions. I speak fluent compliance, accounting, and operations alongside IT systems thinking.

On a concrete level: I delivered a three-year regulatory reporting overhaul for a €50B insurance group, coordinating finance, actuariat, and IT across 12 stakeholder groups. The project succeeded because I positioned myself as the connective tissue—translating business requirements to technical teams, escalating blockers early, and ensuring each phase delivered measurable client wins. That's the role I'd play in your projects: expert on alternative investments and financial instruments, proactive partner to clients, accountable for outcomes.

One honest point: I'm currently structured as an independent consultant (Expert Zone Advisory SAS). If you're building toward a permanent team, that's a conversation worth having. But if you need someone who can hit the ground running on complex implementations, who understands the regulatory and operational realities your clients operate under, and who moves with discipline and accountability—I'm your person.

Let's talk. I'm available for a call this week.
