Dear Hiring Manager,

I bring 25 years in insurance and finance—every single day in this industry. What matters here is that I've spent the last decade advising C-suite teams through major transformations while keeping one foot in the technical details. I understand underwriting, claims, distribution, and the regulatory walls that surround them. More importantly, I know how to translate a business problem into an AI play that actually sticks.

I've led PMO and change programs where the gap between "nice pilot" and "enterprise adoption" killed most projects. That's where I added real value. On a €200M+ finance transformation, I built the governance structure and change cadence that let three business units move simultaneously—each with different risk appetites, each needing the CFO's confidence. The discipline was the delivery mechanism.

What EPAM needs is someone who doesn't treat insurance compliance and scalability as obstacles to work around. They're the design constraints. I've architected solutions across multiple geographies where every change touched regulatory reporting, capital requirements, or both. I know what "production-ready in a regulated environment" actually costs.

The honest part: I've worked as an independent consultant and interim leader for the last five years. I'm not looking for a part-time advisory role. I'm drawn to EPAM because you're building applied AI at scale in an industry where most incumbents still can't get past the talking phase. That's where the work is.

I'd like to talk about how you're structuring client engagements and what's actually stopping insurance leaders from moving faster on AI. I'm available at +33 6 64 89 09 43 or xro@xavier-robitaille.com.

Best,
