I bring 25 years of insurance and finance experience directly into your delivery. That's rare enough—rarer still is someone who moves fluidly between technical depth, regulatory constraint, and the politics of getting things done across Finance, Actuariat, IT, and Operations.

I work best on high-stakes transformation where clarity and execution discipline separate success from slippage. Process redesign, control frameworks, regulatory reporting infrastructure, PMO governance—these aren't abstract problems to me. They're concrete delivery challenges with real stakeholders and real deadlines.

Two examples: I led a complete financial close redesign for a major insurer, cutting month-end cycles by 40% while strengthening control coverage. I've built and scaled PMO functions from scratch in complex multi-team programs—the kind where alignment breaks down easily and scope creep is the default. Numbers matter here because they show the actual impact, not intent.

I should be transparent: I've been independent since 2022, moving between interim assignments. That structure works well for focused, defined-scope projects. If your need is longer-term embedding or requires the psychological anchor of a permanent hire, we should talk about that upfront rather than discover it later.

If the role fits that pattern—transformation work where someone with this depth and delivery track record adds real value—let's explore it. I'm straightforward in conversations and direct about fit.
