I bring 25 years of insurance and finance expertise into roles where technical depth, regulatory compliance, and delivery discipline matter most. I've spent my entire career at the intersection of finance transformation, risk management, and operational complexity—the exact spot where most initiatives either click or stall.

My last three years show the pattern: I restructured the closing process for a €2B+ insurance group (cut cycle time 40%, reduced manual controls by 60%), led the PMO on a regulatory reporting overhaul across three entities (SOX-ready within 18 months), and designed the operating model for a post-merger finance integration. These weren't advisory-only plays—I stayed embedded through execution, owned the dependencies, and pushed past the usual handoff points where things break.

I work best as an interim or project-based consultant rather than full-time. That's partly how I'm structured (Expert Zone Advisory SAS), but honestly it's also how I deliver most value. I move faster when scope is bounded and outcomes are clear. I don't need ramp-up time or political navigation training.

If this role sits in that zone—high visibility, real complexity, need someone who can talk to finance and IT in the same meeting without losing precision—let's talk. I've built a Calendly link if you want to schedule directly: calendly.com/xrobitaille/30min. Otherwise, xro@xavier-robitaille.com works.
