Dear Hiring Manager,

I'm writing to express my interest in the Senior Fund Accountant position at BNP Paribas Dublin.

My 25 years in insurance and finance have centred on exactly this intersection: accounting rigour meets operational complexity meets regulatory pressure. I've spent the last decade bridging finance teams and technical delivery—managing fund accounting processes, redesigning closing procedures, implementing regulatory reporting frameworks—across both insurance and asset management. That's the work this role demands.

In my last two substantive roles, I delivered concrete results. At Société Générale AM, I led a full redesign of NAV calculation and fund accounting controls for a €45bn portfolio, reducing month-end close time by 18 days and eliminating three categories of manual intervention. At AXA IM, I rebuilt the CFO reporting framework for three fund families and managed the accounting team through a major regulatory transition (UCITS IV). Both roles were hybrid delivery—part technical design, part people management, part stakeholder alignment.

I work best in environments where standards matter and execution is non-negotiable. Your emphasis on collaborative, open-minded culture appeals to me precisely because that's where good financial controls live: clarity, shared ownership, no heroics.

There's one honest frame: I've worked mainly as interim consultant and senior manager, not in a fixed-term employment contract for a decade. That's been deliberate—I value flexibility and project-based work. But your 12-month structure and hybrid model in Dublin align with what I'm looking for right now: a substantive role where I can build something durable with a strong team.

I'm ready to discuss how my experience scales to your fund accounting operation.

Best regards,

Xavier Robitaille
