Re : Change Management & Program Director | USA (Remote)

Leading enterprise-scale EPM/CPM transformation programmes with tight governance over risk, resourcing and multiple concurrent workstreams, while carrying single-point accountability for the client relationship at C-suite level, is the exact combination that decides whether a finance transformation programme lands or stalls.

On a SimCorp Dimension and Clearwater Analytics rollout, I owned delivery end to end, from platform design through go-live, coordinating consultants, architects and third-party integrators under one programme governance structure covering risk, budget and resourcing. Separately, I rebuilt an insurer's investment accounting production under Solvency II and IFRS 9 constraints, redesigning the closing process and controls so the finance function could report to ACPR standard on a compressed cycle. That work sat exactly where technical accounting rules, regulatory pressure and organizational complexity meet, which is the same mix this role asks for on the EPM side. I've also led migration and data conversion work, including UAT, cutover planning and clearing legacy suspense accounts, which maps directly onto the risk and resourcing discipline a multi-workstream programme needs.

I haven't worked directly on OneStream, Hyperion, Anaplan or SAP BPC. My platform depth is on the investment and accounting side, SimCorp and Clearwater, while programme governance, C-suite stakeholder management and my PMP certification transfer directly.

Worth a short call to see if the fit holds up on your side.
