I bring 25 years of insurance and finance experience to the intersection where technical depth, regulatory constraint, and execution pressure meet. My value sits in clarity—cutting through complexity to deliver what matters on time.

I've spent the last decade rebuilding finance and assurance operating models where legacy systems, scattered accountability, and misaligned stakeholders were killing velocity. At a mid-cap insurer, I redesigned their regulatory reporting infrastructure and closing process, cutting month-end cycles by 35% while embedding controls that passed every audit. More recently, I led a multi-year PMO transformation for a finance function managing €2.5B+ in assets—resetting governance, rebuilding the roadmap, and restoring credibility with the CFO office after a failed program.

The trade-off is clear: I work as an independent consultant, not a permanent employee. That means I bring operational discipline and fresh perspective faster than someone ramp-up internally, but I'm not a long-term hire for tasks that don't need that intensity.

I'm built for missions where the work is real, the stakes are visible, and the team needs someone who doesn't need hand-holding on finance mechanics or regulatory literacy. If that fits what you're solving for, let's talk. You can reach me at xro@xavier-robitaille.com or book 30 minutes here: calendly.com/xrobitaille/30min.
