Re : Business Project Manager

VERDI Phase 4 asks for someone who can turn migration, product and system decisions into a working operating model on Day 1: procedures, controls, staffing, cutover and hypercare, all ready before the first Classic Life or Unit-Linked policy moves. That is the kind of readiness work I have built a practice around: converting complex change into processes, trained teams and evidence packs that hold up in a Go/No-Go review.

As senior programme director at Clearwater Analytics, I ran several parallel implementations of a Record-to-Report SaaS solution, including for the Luxembourg-based Luxempart, with monthly sponsor committees at executive management level and consolidated management of deliverables, milestones and resources on a dedicated tool, Monday.com. One dashboard, one RAID log, one Go/No-Go narrative across multiple workstreams: that is close to what this role needs to produce for COO sign-off.

At Coface, I rolled out IFRS 9 in stages over four years: successive POCs, the ECL methodology, the accounting schemes, UAT, and coordination with the custodian CACEIS. I also built an investment Data Warehouse there: field definitions, table structure, and controls on inputs and outputs. Migrating a technical framework of that size without breaking daily servicing or audit trails is the same problem VERDI Phase 4 poses for policy servicing, commissions and claims.

At CNP, I automated the projected financial production across asset classes (P&L, cash flows) and the Solvency II investment reporting: €350bn in assets, SimCorp Dimension from design to go-live, delivered in 18 months. That gives me a working grasp of the Solvency II constraints this mission needs to preserve through cutover.

Hybrid delivery from Brussels, 2 to 3 days on-site, fits how I have worked since Clearwater: distributed teams, shared trackers, and executive committees run as well online as in person.

I operate as an independent consultant today. Nevertheless, I am perfectly open to a permanent role, directly or after an initial engagement period.

I would be happy to discuss how this experience applies to the Classic Life and Unit-Linked cutover.

Best regards,

Xavier Robitaille
