I've built 25 years in insurance and finance transformation—the kind of work that sits at the intersection of regulatory constraint, technical complexity, and delivery pressure. That's where I add the most value.

Most recently, I led a regulatory reporting redesign for a €2B+ asset manager, rebuilding their entire data architecture and control framework to meet Solvency II requirements while cutting month-end close time by 40%. Before that, I managed a €50M digital finance transformation program across four business units—designing operating models, implementing controls, and keeping stakeholders aligned when priorities collided.

What I do well: take ambiguous briefs, ask the questions that matter, and deliver outcomes that work operationally. I move between CFO offices, risk teams, and IT without losing the thread. I'm comfortable with complexity and impatient with noise.

One honest thing: I work best as an interim or contract consultant, not in traditional employment. I've structured my practice around deep dives on specific problems rather than sitting in a role. If your need is time-bound and technical—a program, a redesign, a turnaround—I'm a strong fit. If you're looking for someone to grow into a permanent seat, I'm probably not the right answer.

Happy to talk through what you're building and whether a partnership makes sense. You can reach me at xro@xavier-robitaille.com or grab time on calendly.com/xrobitaille/30min.
