

Clearwater Analytics

August 10, 2026

Re : Sr. Subject Matter Expert - Implementations

Clearwater's Professional Services division sits at the point where client change requests meet platform delivery constraints: data feeds, GL rebuilds, accounting configuration, bespoke reporting, all billable and all time-boxed. That combination of technical depth and delivery discipline is exactly where I've spent the last phase of my career.

As senior programme director at Clearwater, I ran several parallel implementations of an R to R SaaS solution, with monthly sponsor committees at CEO/CFO level and consolidated tracking of deliverables, milestones and resources on a dedicated tool (Monday.com). One of those clients was Luxempart. That work covered exactly the kind of requirements analysis, solution design and stakeholder management this role asks for, at multiple accounts running at the same time.

Before that, at CNP, I automated the projected financial production across asset classes (P&L, cash flows) and the Solvency II investment reporting: €350bn in assets, SimCorp Dimension from design to go-live, delivered in 18 months. At Coface, I built a securities Data Warehouse (field design, table structure, input and output controls) and rolled out IFRS 9 in stages over four years: successive POCs, ECL methodology, accounting schemes, testing, coordination with the custodian CACEIS. Both projects required the same skill this role needs: translating investment accounting policy into system configuration that survives audit and period-end close.

I completed the full examination track of the Centre d'Études Actuarielles (2004), which gives me the technical grounding in investment accounting and regulatory regimes (Solvency II, IFRS 9) that this role calls for, alongside 25 years across insurance and finance. Clearwater's position as the platform of reference for institutional investment accounting is the environment where I want to put that experience to work.

I operate as an independent consultant today. Nevertheless, I am perfectly open to a permanent role, directly or after an initial engagement period.

I would be happy to discuss how this background applies to your steady-state client base.

Best regards,

Xavier Robitaille