As a finance professional with 25 years' experience in insurance and regulated financial services, I bring both the technical depth and operational discipline this role demands. I've spent my career at the intersection of complex reporting requirements, control frameworks, and delivery pressure—exactly where this Senior Portfolio Accountant position sits.

My background is rooted in qualified accounting practice and Big Four-equivalent work. At Expert Zone Advisory, I've spent the last five years embedded in finance transformation for major insurance and asset management firms, working directly with CFOs, compliance, and operations teams on portfolio reporting, regulatory reconciliation, and control redesign. This isn't theoretical—I've rebuilt monthly and quarterly reporting cycles for portfolios with €2B+ AUM, managed third-party administrator oversight, and embedded myself in the detail work that separates accurate reporting from compliant reporting.

What's directly relevant here: I've completed investor reporting cycles that required coordination across portfolio managers, custodian banks, and external auditors. I've built the analytical frameworks to flag valuation issues and performance fee calculation errors before they reach clients. I'm comfortable with Excel at scale, foreign exchange workflows, and the relentless reconciliation discipline that real asset portfolios need. I understand the rhythm of monthly close, quarterly presentations, and annual audit cycles—and how to maintain quality through all three.

I'm fluent in French and English, and I've worked across UK and Continental European financial services environments. London-based delivery isn't a constraint for me.

The honest point: I've worked primarily as an independent consultant and interim manager. I'm genuinely interested in this fixed-term contract structure because it's real work with clear scope, and because I want to add immediate, measurable value to a team rather than carry organizational overhead. I perform best when expectations are precise and the work matters.

I'm ready to start immediately and would welcome a conversation about how I can hit the ground running on your portfolio operations.
