Re : AXA Health Business- Head of Financial Controlling F/H

AXA Health International is being built from the ground up, and its Finance function needs new processes and new tools while still running forecasting, performance steering, expense management and capital management for a 24-person team split between France and Tunbridge Wells. AXA is the leading Health player in Europe, and that scale is exactly where I want to put 25 years of insurance and finance transformation work to use.

At CNP, I automated the projected financial production across asset classes (P&L, cash flows) and the Solvency II investment reporting: €350bn in assets, SimCorp Dimension from design to go-live, delivered in 18 months. That kind of build, under prudential scrutiny and tight deadlines, is close to what AHI's finance function needs right now.

At Coface, I rolled out IFRS 9 in stages over four years: successive POCs, ECL methodology, accounting schemes, testing, and coordination with the depository CACEIS. I also created the investment Data Warehouse there, defining fields, table structure, and input and output controls, the kind of groundwork a newly built controlling function needs for reliable data.

As senior programme director for Clearwater Analytics, I ran several parallel SaaS R to R implementations, with monthly sponsor committees at executive level and consolidated tracking of deliverables, milestones and resources on Monday.com, including for the Luxembourg client Luxempart. Four years at SCOR, two of them as chief transformation officer of the investment function, gave me direct experience turning a function's processes into something an executive committee can rely on month after month.

I completed the full examination track of the Centre d'Études Actuarielles in 2004, which covers the actuarial concepts this role asks for alongside IFRS and AXA's non-GAAP measures.

I operate as an independent consultant today. Nevertheless, I am perfectly open to a permanent role, directly or after an initial engagement period.

I would be happy to discuss how this transformation could be structured in the first 100 days.

Best regards,

Xavier Robitaille
