I bring 25 years of finance and insurance expertise into complex transformation work—the kind where technical depth, regulatory constraints, and delivery pressure collide. I've spent my career sitting at that intersection, helping CFO offices and finance teams redesign processes, tighten controls, and navigate regulatory change without losing momentum.

Most recently, I led a full closing redesign for a mid-cap insurer, restructuring workflows across finance, actuariat, and operations. The result: 40% faster month-end close, new control framework certified by internal audit, and a team that actually understood the why behind the changes. Before that, I managed a multi-year PMO program for regulatory reporting overhaul—three geographies, tight compliance deadlines, stakeholders pulling in different directions. We delivered on time because we mapped dependencies early and made the hard tradeoffs explicit.

I work best when the mission has teeth: where clarity and execution discipline matter more than process theater. That's where I add real value.

I'm currently structured as an independent consultant (Expert Zone Advisory SAS), so I'm set up for interim roles, fixed-term mandates, or project-based work. If you're looking for someone to own a stream of work and see it through with minimal friction, I'm worth a conversation.
