I'm writing to apply for the Finance Transformation Manager role at Stanton House. I bring 25 years of hands-on experience in insurance and finance transformation—precisely the depth needed to standardise processes, strengthen controls, and prepare complex organisations for ERP readiness.

My value is specific: I've led operating model redesigns and process standardisation programmes where siloed finance functions became scalable, governed systems. I combine technical rigour with the ability to align CFO offices, regulators, IT teams, and business stakeholders under real delivery pressure.

Two concrete examples. At a multi-entity insurer, I redesigned the closing process across 12 legal entities—cutting timeline by 40%, embedding controls, and creating the foundation for system consolidation. At another, I built the finance governance framework and management reporting infrastructure ahead of a major ERP migration, ensuring data quality and control readiness from day one. Both involved standardising local practices into global models while managing resistance and complexity.

I'm currently independent through Expert Zone Advisory, so I move quickly and own outcomes. The trade-off is obvious: you'd be bringing someone from freelance into a permanent role. But that's also why I'm selective—I'm looking for a transformation mandate with real scope, not operational maintenance.

I'm based in the Paris region and comfortable with London travel. I speak English fluently and have worked with UK-based teams throughout my career.

Happy to discuss the role's priorities and how I'd structure the first 90 days. My calendar is at calendly.com/xrobitaille/30min, or reach me at xro@xavier-robitaille.com or +33 6 64 89 09 43.
