

Xavier Robitaille · xro@xavier-robitaille.com · +33 6 64 89 09 43

I bring 25 years of financial services expertise and a track record of building scalable operating models —exactly what Argenta needs to strengthen its investment platform.

As a senior consultant, I've spent two decades designing and executing transformation in insurance and finance. My last three years focused on refactoring finance and operations functions for complex, regulated environments: redesigning reporting infrastructure, optimizing partner management, and implementing cost controls that stuck. I've done this repeatedly across PMO, AMOA, and interim CFO office roles, which means I understand both the strategy and the mechanics of execution.

What's relevant to Head of Investment Services: I've built teams around clear ownership models, restructured partner ecosystems for performance and scalability, and managed the tension between operational efficiency and future-proofing—which is your mandate. I've also sat in enough board-level discussions to translate strategic intent into concrete KPIs without losing sight of the operational realities. I know how to challenge the status quo without breaking things.

The honest gap: I come from freelance/interim positions, not permanent roles. But I chose that structure because it let me move fast and focus on delivery over politics. If Argenta is serious about making investment services more competitive and durable, that bias toward execution is an asset.

I'd welcome a conversation about your investment roadmap and how to build a team and partnership model that scales. You can reach me at xro@xavier-robitaille.com or +33 6 64 89 09 43.