

BLEUMOTION

July 31, 2026

Re : Principal Consultant – Sovereign Financial Market Infrastructure & Strategic Advisory

BLEUMOTION advises governments, central banks and market infrastructures on programmes that only work when the advice comes from people who have delivered similar programmes themselves. That is the environment where my experience fits.

At CNP, I automated the projected financial production across asset classes (P&L, cash flows) and the Solvency II investment reporting: €350bn in assets, SimCorp Dimension from design to go-live, delivered in 18 months. Building that reporting infrastructure end to end, across asset classes and regulatory requirements at that scale, is the kind of operational depth BLEUMOTION's mandates need translated into strategic advice.

At Coface, IFRS 9 rolled out in stages over four years: successive POCs, ECL methodology, accounting schemes, UAT, and coordination with CACEIS as depositary. I also built the investment Data Warehouse there, defining the fields, table structure, and input and output controls. That combination, investment accounting, depositary coordination, and post-trade data infrastructure, is close to what BLEUMOTION's clients need when they design or transform market infrastructure.

As senior programme director at Clearwater, I ran several parallel implementations of a SaaS record-to-report solution, with monthly sponsor committees at executive level and consolidated delivery, milestone and resource management on a dedicated tool (Monday.com). One of these engagements was for Luxempart, a Luxembourg-based client, delivered largely remotely, which is how most of my work runs today. Four years at SCOR, two of them as chief transformation officer of the investment function, gave me direct exposure to Board-level governance and strategic decision-making in reinsurance.

I operate as an independent consultant today. Nevertheless, I am perfectly open to a permanent role, directly or after an initial engagement period.

I would be happy to discuss how this experience applies to BLEUMOTION's sovereign and institutional mandates.

Best regards,

Xavier Robitaille