Re : Insurance Consulting, Senior Manager (Life & Pensions)

Baringa's Life & Pensions practice sits at a point insurers, pension providers and TPAs all feel right now: legacy policy administration platforms that need replacing, bulk annuity volumes that keep growing, and regulatory-driven programmes that have to land on time. That combination, delivery discipline plus technical depth, is what this role asks for.

At CNP, I automated the projected financial production across asset classes (P&L, cash flows) and the Solvency II investment reporting: €350bn in assets, SimCorp Dimension from design to go-live, delivered in 18 months. At Coface, IFRS 9 was rolled out in stages over four years: successive POCs, ECL methodology, accounting schemes, UAT, coordination with the depository CACEIS, alongside building a placements Data Warehouse (fields, table structure, input and output controls). More recently, as senior programme director at Clearwater Analytics, I ran several parallel implementations of a SaaS R-to-R solution, with monthly sponsor committees at executive level and consolidated tracking of deliverables, milestones and resources on Monday.com, including a Luxembourg client, Luxempart. Four years at SCOR, two of them as chief transformation officer for the investment function, gave me the reinsurance and stakeholder-management background that maps closely to the senior client relationships this role requires. On the practice-building side, at Primexis I built the insurance business unit from scratch: 20 people, 10 clients, €3m in revenue, and a seat on the executive committee, which is the same muscle this role calls for around proposition development and account growth.

Hybrid working and distributed teams are how I've operated for years, including throughout the Clearwater engagements, so remote collaboration with London-based stakeholders raises no issues on my side.

I operate as an independent consultant today. Nevertheless, I am perfectly open to a permanent role, directly or after an initial engagement period. As a contractor who is a non-UK Tax resident, based overseas, IR35 does not apply to me.

I would be happy to discuss how this experience applies to Baringa's Life & Pensions growth priorities.

Best regards,
