Re : Head of Finance Transformation

Eutopia Search's client is running three transformation streams at once: cost transformation, margin enhancement, and data improvement to support growth. That combination needs someone who has actually run large programmes end to end, not just advised on them.

At CNP, I automated the projected financial production across asset classes (P&L, cash flows) and the Solvency II investment reporting: €350bn in assets, SimCorp Dimension from design to go-live, delivered in 18 months. That is the kind of scale and delivery discipline this role calls for when it comes to managing large-scale transformation programmes and partnering with finance leadership on reporting and controls.

Cost and process transformation is where I have spent most of my career. At Coface, IFRS 9 was rolled out in stages over four years: successive POCs, ECL methodology, accounting schemes, UAT, and coordination with CACEIS as depositary. In parallel, I built a Data Warehouse for investments there, covering field design, table structure, and input/output controls, which is directly relevant to the data improvement stream in this brief. At SCOR, I spent four years, two of them as chief transformation officer of the investment function, working alongside the CFO and senior leadership on exactly this kind of agenda.

Programme management is not new ground either. As senior programme director at Clearwater, I ran several parallel implementations of a SaaS record-to-report solution, with monthly sponsor committees at executive level and consolidated tracking of deliverables, milestones, and resources on Monday.com. Stakeholder engagement and KPI tracking, both listed in this role, are built into how I run programmes day to day.

I operate as an independent consultant today. Nevertheless, I am perfectly open to a permanent role, directly or after an initial engagement period, and a 9-month term with the possibility of extension fits well with how I work.

I would be happy to discuss how this experience applies to the three transformation streams in this brief.

Best regards,

Xavier Robitaille
