Re : Transformation Programme Lead

Finatal is recruiting for a PE-backed consumer platform at a stage where transformation needs an owner, not just a design. The mandate calls for PMO governance disciplined enough to hold senior stakeholders accountable, and for someone able to move across Product & Tech, Commercial, Finance and HR without losing execution pace. That combination, delivery discipline paired with exposure to investors and senior leadership, is where I have spent the last 25 years operating in insurance and in finance.

At Clearwater Analytics, I worked as senior programme director, running several parallel SaaS implementations of a record-to-report solution, including for the Luxembourg client Luxempart. Each ran on monthly sponsor committees at general management level, with deliverables, milestones and resources tracked on a dedicated tool (Monday.com). That is the same governance rigor a board-level transformation programme needs: clear prioritisation, visible tracking, and stakeholders who stay aligned because the reporting forces it.

At SCOR, I spent four years, two of them as chief transformation officer of the investment function, translating strategy into delivery across teams that did not naturally speak the same language. Before that, at Primexis, I built the insurance business unit from scratch: 20 people, 10 clients, €3m in revenue, and a seat on the Comex. That mix, building something operational and sitting at the leadership table while doing it, is what this role asks for.

I operate as an independent consultant today. Nevertheless, I am perfectly open to a permanent role, directly or after an initial engagement period.

I would be happy to discuss how this experience applies to the transformation programme you are running for this platform.

Best regards,

Xavier Robitaille
