Re : Global Project Management Director

GBM Asset Management runs systematic macro, long/short Japanese equities, and event-driven strategies across global teams, and needs a Global Project Management Director able to coordinate investment, technology, and operational priorities across regions while keeping budgets, milestones, and governance under control. That combination, financial services delivery plus multi-region coordination, is where I've spent the last 25 years.

As senior programme director for Clearwater Analytics, I ran several parallel implementations of an R2R SaaS solution, including for the Luxembourg client Luxempart, with monthly sponsor committees at executive level and consolidated tracking of deliverables, milestones, and resources on Monday.com. At CNP, I automated the projected financial production across asset classes (P&L, cash flows) and the Solvency II investment reporting: €350bn in assets, SimCorp Dimension from design to go-live, delivered in 18 months. At Coface, IFRS 9 was rolled out in stages over four years: successive POCs, ECL methodology, accounting schemes, UAT, and coordination with the custodian CACEIS, alongside a Data Warehouse I built for investment data, its fields, table structure, and input and output controls.

Earlier at Primexis, I built the insurance business unit from scratch: 20 people, 10 clients, €3m in revenue, as a member of the executive committee. I hold a PMP certification (2025), and I'm certified in Generative AI Primer (Vanderbilt, 2026) and GenAI for Account Executives (Yale, 2026); I now automate most of my entrepreneurial activity through AI agents under Claude or GPT. GBM's cross-region investment and technology footprint is exactly the kind of setting where standardizing PM frameworks across time zones makes the biggest difference.

I operate as an independent consultant today. Nevertheless, I am perfectly open to a permanent role, directly or after an initial engagement period.

I would be happy to discuss how this experience applies to GBM's global project portfolio.

Best regards,
