Re : Strategic Project Manager (Finance) - Remote

Hired's finance function is scaling fast, and this role sits at the point where financial modeling, cross-functional delivery, and regulatory rigor meet. That combination is where I operate best.

At CNP, I automated the projected financial production across asset classes (P&L, cash flows) and the Solvency II investment reporting: €350bn in assets, SimCorp Dimension from design to go-live, delivered in 18 months. That project required exactly what this role asks for: translating complex financial data into models that senior stakeholders could act on, under regulatory deadlines that didn't move.

At Coface, IFRS 9 rolled out in stages over four years: successive POCs, ECL methodology, accounting schemes, UAT, and coordination with the depositary CACEIS. I also built the investment Data Warehouse there, from field definitions to table structure to input and output controls, work that speaks directly to the ERP and financial modeling proficiency you're looking for.

More recently, as senior programme director at Clearwater, I ran several parallel implementations of a SaaS R to R solution, with monthly sponsor committees at executive level and consolidated tracking of deliverables, milestones, and resources on Monday.com, entirely remote. Distributed delivery, cross-functional stakeholders, and monthly reporting to leadership are not new territory for me; they're how I've worked for years.

I operate as an independent consultant today. Nevertheless, I am perfectly open to a permanent role, directly or after an initial engagement period. As a contractor who is a non-UK Tax resident, based overseas, IR35 does not apply to me.

I would be happy to discuss how this experience applies to Hired's financial infrastructure priorities.

Best regards,

Xavier Robitaille
