Re : Senior Consulting Manager, Business Advisory

Finance transformation at scale, delivered through complex stakeholder environments, is exactly where this role sits, and it matches the type of work I've built my practice around across insurance and finance.

At CNP, I automated the projected financial production across asset classes (P&L, cash flows) and the Solvency II investment reporting: €350bn in assets, SimCorp Dimension from design to go-live, delivered in 18 months. That kind of engagement requires the same mix this position calls for: technical depth in finance operating models, program governance across workstreams, and enough credibility with senior stakeholders to keep a transformation program on track over multiple years.

At Coface, I rolled out IFRS 9 in stages over four years: successive POCs, ECL methodology, accounting schemes, UAT, coordination with the depositary CACEIS. I also built the investment Data Warehouse from scratch, defining fields, table structure, and input/output controls, while managing a team of 16. As senior programme director at Clearwater, I ran multiple parallel SaaS R to R implementations, including for the Luxembourg client Luxempart, with monthly sponsor committees at executive level and consolidated delivery tracking on Monday.com. Earlier, at SCOR, I spent four years in the reinsurance space, two of them as chief transformation officer for the investment function.

On the technology side, I completed the full examination track of the Centre d'Études Actuarielles (2004), which gives me a working fluency with actuarial and technical provisioning concepts that most transformation consultants don't have. I'm also certified in Generative AI Primer (Vanderbilt, 2026) and GenAI for Account Executives (Yale, 2026), and I now automate most of my own consulting operations through AI agents built on Claude and GPT, which maps directly to the AI adoption advisory this role expects from candidates.

Building a practice from the ground up is also part of my track record: at Primexis, I created the insurance business unit from scratch, growing it to 20 people, 10 clients, and €3M in revenue, and sat on the executive committee.

I operate as an independent consultant today. Nevertheless, I am perfectly open to a permanent role, directly or after an initial engagement period.

I would be happy to discuss how this experience applies to your finance transformation engagements in Canada.

Best regards,

Xavier Robitaille
