

Ultralytics

July 31, 2026

Re : Head of Finance (Interim)

Ultralytics is scaling fast on a $30M Series A, and this role means building the finance, legal and HR processes that growth needs while the team stays lean. That is the kind of assignment I look for.

At Primexis, I built the insurance business unit from scratch: 20 people, 10 clients, €3M in revenue, and a seat on the Comex. It's the same operator profile this role calls for, setting up finance and operations without an existing team to lean on.

At SCOR, I spent four years in the investment function, the last two as chief transformation officer, working directly with board-level governance and translating complex numbers into decisions the leadership team could act on.

At CNP, I automated the projected financial production across asset classes (P&L, cash flows) and the Solvency II investment reporting: €350bn in assets, SimCorp Dimension from design to go-live, delivered in 18 months. Ultralytics needs the same discipline in its reporting and controls before its next funding round.

As senior programme director at Clearwater, I ran several parallel implementations of an R to R SaaS solution, with monthly sponsor committees at executive level and consolidated management of deliverables, milestones and resources on a dedicated tool, Monday.com. That work was fully remote, and hybrid delivery is how I have operated for years.

Certified Generative AI Primer (Vanderbilt, 2026) and GenAI for Account Executives (Yale, 2026), I automate most of my own operations today through AI agents under Claude or GPT, which matters when the finance function is one person.

I operate as an independent consultant today. Nevertheless, I am perfectly open to a permanent role, directly or after an initial engagement period. As a contractor who is a non-UK Tax resident, based overseas, IR35 does not apply to me.

I would be happy to discuss how this experience applies to Ultralytics' next stage.

Best regards,

Xavier Robitaille