Re : Divisional Finance Officer Continental Europe

Chubb's Continental Europe finance function needs someone who can sit between the CE President's office and the underwriting, actuarial and operations teams, and turn financial data into decisions the business can act on. That is the position I have held across 25 years in insurance and in finance.

At SCOR, I spent four years, two of them as chief transformation officer of the investment function, working on P&L ownership, planning cycles and reporting redesign alongside senior stakeholders. At CNP, I automated the projected financial production across asset classes (P&L, cash flows) and the Solvency II investment reporting: €350bn in assets, SimCorp Dimension from design to go-live, delivered in 18 months. That work sits close to what Chubb is asking for here: modernized reporting and improved data quality on a large, complex asset base, delivered by the same person from design through go-live rather than handed off midstream.

More recently, as senior programme director for Clearwater Analytics, I have run several parallel implementations of an R to R SaaS solution, each with monthly sponsor committees at executive level and consolidated tracking of deliverables, milestones and resources on a dedicated tool (Monday.com). That combination, financial leadership that reports cleanly to senior stakeholders while a transformation runs underneath it, is what the DFO role calls for.

I operate as an independent consultant today. Nevertheless, I am perfectly open to a permanent role, directly or after an initial engagement period, given the scope and continuity this position calls for.

I would be happy to discuss how this experience applies to Chubb's Continental Europe finance agenda.

Best regards,

Xavier Robitaille
