Dear Hiring Manager,

I bring 25 years of hands-on transformation experience in insurance and financial services—the exact depth KPMG's Insurance Transformation team needs at Senior Manager level.

My value is specific: I combine technical mastery (core systems, regulatory reporting, operating model redesign) with delivery discipline and stakeholder navigation. I've led multidisciplinary teams through complex programs where underwriting, claims, and policy administration intersect with IT and Risk constraints. I speak both the CFO's language and the CIO's—which matters when shaping strategy with C-level stakeholders.

Two concrete examples: I redesigned the closing and financial control architecture for a €12B+ insurance group, embedding process digitalization and automation into the target operating model while managing regulatory reporting transitions. On another mandate, I led the PMO governance layer for a dual-track claims and underwriting transformation across three markets, moving a 300+ person team from waterfall to agile delivery. Both taught me how to accelerate go-to-market execution without sacrificing quality—and how to mentor delivery teams to lift their own performance.

I run Expert Zone Advisory as a consulting entity, which gives me speed and flexibility. The trade-off is straightforward: I'm not a permanent employee, but I bring senior-level autonomy, client-facing maturity, and no ramp-up curve. I step in ready to lead.

I'm deeply curious about your insurance client base and the specific operating model challenges you're seeing post-IFRS 17 and amid InsurTech pressure. I'd welcome a conversation about how my transformation experience maps to your current pipeline.

Let's connect.

Best regards,
