Dear Allianz Direct Hiring Team,

I'm writing to express my interest in the Senior Business Process Expert Motor role in Munich. With 25 years in insurance and finance, I've spent the last decade designing and optimizing motor insurance operations—exactly the mix of domain expertise and process discipline your role requires.

What I can bring: I combine deep insurance knowledge (underwriting, claims, contract management, regulatory requirements) with hands-on delivery experience. I don't just recommend improvements; I architect them, measure them, and see them through. I've worked across the full contract lifecycle—pricing, sales, policy administration, and customer service—which is directly relevant to your focus on contract management and customer experience optimization.

Two concrete examples: At a European insurer, I led the redesign of their motor customer service operations, introducing self-service workflows and automation that cut handling time by 35% while improving NPS by 12 points. More recently, I guided a pan-European digital insurer through process optimization for regulatory reporting and premium collection, reducing manual interventions by 40% using data-driven KPI monitoring—the same approach you're looking for.

One honest note: I've built my career as a senior consultant and interim leader, not in permanent roles. I'm drawn to Allianz Direct because your scale, international setup, and commitment to operational excellence make this transition clear for me. I'm ready to embed as a permanent leader, not just advise.

I'd welcome a conversation about how I can contribute to your Motor book optimization and the broader customer experience roadmap.

Best regards,
Xavier Robitaille
