Dear Macif Hiring Team,

I'm applying for the Chef de Projet role because I see a genuine fit between what you're building and where I can add clear value.

For 25 years, I've worked exclusively in insurance and finance—the last decade piloting complex, multi-stakeholder transformation programmes. I've led cross-functional teams through strategic repositioning, process redesigns, and regulatory implementations where clarity, discipline, and the ability to align Finance, Actuariat, IT, and Operations were non-negotiable. That's precisely the transverse, orchestration-heavy work your job description describes.

Two concrete examples: I recently managed the end-to-end delivery of a regulatory reporting overhaul across three business lines—16 people, 18-month timeline, zero missed deadlines. Before that, I designed and implemented a finance operating model redesign that reduced month-end closing by 40% while improving control maturity. In both cases, the value came from seeing how the pieces fit together and refusing ambiguity in scope or accountability.

I'll be direct about the transition: I've been independent for the last few years, which gave me autonomy and breadth I valued. But I'm at a point where I want to deepen impact within a mission-driven organisation—and your mutualiste model and focus on human development genuinely resonates. A CDI at Macif appeals to me more than another interim assignment.

I'm not looking for a comfortable role. I'm looking to work on problems that matter with people who care about getting them right.

I'm available to discuss how my background maps to your team's current challenges.

Regards,

Xavier Robitaille
