Re : Strategic Project Manager (Finance) - Remote

Translating financial data into decisions across a global technology organization while keeping GAAP and IFRS compliance intact during a finance modernization push is a specific kind of pressure, not a generic transformation brief.

At CNP Assurances, I rebuilt the investment accounting production line under Solvency II constraints for a 350 billion euro portfolio, delivering the redesign in 18 months on schedule. That work combined financial modeling, variance analysis, and regulatory reporting oversight, which is the same triangle this role sits in. I later led a SimCorp Dimension implementation end to end, from design through go-live, coordinating finance, actuarial, and IT teams so the new system replaced manual reconciliations rather than adding another layer on top. On a separate mandate, I ran an IFRS 9 ECL migration: building the cahier des charges, running UAT, and clearing legacy suspense accounts that had accumulated for years, work that depends entirely on cross-functional stakeholder management and clean process design. Each of these projects required moving between technical accounting detail and senior leadership priorities without losing either.

I have not worked inside a pure technology company before; my 25 years are entirely in insurance and financial services, though the finance mechanics (planning, reporting, ROI evaluation) transfer directly.

Happy to walk through how these deliveries map onto your project roadmap on a short call.
