I bring 25 years of deep insurance expertise—strategy, operations, technology, regulatory reporting—and a track record delivering high-stakes transformation where business complexity meets execution discipline. That's exactly what this role demands.

At Synpulse, you need someone who moves fluidly between C-suite conversations and delivery detail. I've done both. Over the past decade, I've led operating model redesigns for insurers navigating delegated authority frameworks, underwriting process optimization, and technology-enabled change across London Market and broader European operations. I know the constraints—regulatory, actuarial, organizational—that shape what's actually possible.

Most recently, I've guided finance and operations teams through major transformation programs: closing redesign, control architecture, process automation, governance realignment. The pattern is consistent: I identify where leverage sits, align fragmented stakeholders around a clear future state, and build the PMO discipline to deliver it. One recent engagement compressed a 18-month roadmap into 12 months without cutting corners—clarity and velocity both matter.

What sets me apart isn't just domain knowledge. It's the judgment to ask the right diagnostic questions early, the credibility to challenge assumptions respectfully, and the operational rigor to make change stick. I've built and led delivery teams under pressure. I know how to work with interim management structures and how to hand over sustainably.

One honest point: I've been independent for the past few years—it's given me flexibility and kept my expertise sharp, but I'm genuinely interested in the depth and stability of a firm like Synpulse. This role aligns with how I want to work: leading complex, visible transformations alongside a strong team.

I'd welcome a conversation about how I can help your clients redesign for the future. You can reach me at +33 6 64 89 09 43 or xro@xavier-robitaille.com.
