I bring 25 years of insurance and finance expertise directly into the problems Inetum Consulting solves for your clients. I've spent my entire career at the intersection of strategy, regulatory constraint, and delivery—the exact space where insurance transformation gets stuck or succeeds. For Insurance Advisory, I'm valuable because I understand both what needs to change and why it doesn't, and I can translate between actuaries, CFOs, and technologists without losing precision.

My last three years running Expert Zone Advisory involved designing transformation roadmaps for mid-cap insurers facing climate risk re-underwriting and operating model redesign. One client, a €800M mutual insurer, needed to restructure its CFO office and regulatory reporting function after a merger. I led the assessment, built the target operating model, and staffed the implementation—delivered six months early with 20% lower-than-budgeted FTE spend. That's the kind of work where deep sector knowledge and execution discipline both matter.

I should be direct about the transition: I've been independent for three years and built a solid advisory practice. Moving into a salaried consultant role at a growth-stage firm like Inetum is a deliberate choice—your scale, sectoral approach, and client roster give me room to do bigger transformation work than I can alone, and the international footprint appeals.

I'm ready to talk through a specific engagement or pilot project rather than a generic interview. Happy to work from your Saint-Ouen office or wherever the work sits.
