I'm a specialist in insurance and finance transformation where complexity meets execution pressure. Over 25 years, I've built deep expertise in regulatory reporting, process redesign, and PMO delivery—the intersection where technical requirements, compliance constraints, and organizational friction create real friction.

My last two significant engagements show the pattern. I led a regulatory reporting overhaul for a mid-cap insurer facing Solvency II deadline pressure; we mapped 47 data flows, consolidated three legacy systems, and delivered compliant quarterly reporting 6 weeks ahead of the regulatory timeline. The second was a CFO office restructuring where I ran the AMOA for a process redesign across Finance, Actuariat, and Operations—mapped 8 disconnected workflows into a single operating model, reduced closing time from 18 to 11 days, and cut manual intervention by 60%.

The honest tension: I work best as an interim senior contributor or fractional FP&A lead—where the mission is defined, accountability is clear, and I own the execution. I'm less suited to full-time corporate roles with committee-heavy decision cycles. That's not a weakness; it's clarity about where I add the most value.

I'm ready to move fast. If the scope aligns with financial operations, regulatory complexity, or programme delivery in insurance or finance, I can start within two weeks.

Let's talk.
