Re : Insurance Consulting, Senior Manager (Life & Pensions)

Modernising a legacy policy administration platform while keeping regulatory reporting intact, and doing it inside a book of business measured in billions, is where most Life & Pensions transformation programmes actually break. That's the specific problem this role is built around, and it's the kind of delivery challenge I've spent the last 25 years inside.

At CNP, I rebuilt investment accounting production under Solvency II constraints for 350 billion euros in assets under management, delivered in 18 months, on schedule, with the sub-ledger and control framework holding up under regulatory scrutiny throughout. Separately, I've led data migration and interface cutover programmes where the real risk isn't the target system, it's the suspense accounts and reconciliation gaps that surface mid-migration: I built the UAT scripts and cleared the backlog before go-live, which is exactly the discipline large-scale policy administration replacements demand. I've also worked the SCR and ALM side directly, which matters when a programme has to satisfy both the business case and the actuarial and risk functions at once.

My provisioning experience sits on the investment and credit side (ECL, amortised cost), not P&C or annuity book reserving, so I'd expect a ramp-up on product-specific reserving mechanics even where the transformation skills transfer directly.

Hybrid delivery has been standard practice for me since my last engagement at Clearwater, so remote and on-site mix isn't an adjustment. As a contractor who is a non-UK Tax resident, based overseas, IR35 does not apply to me. Worth a call to go through where I'd add the most value first.
