Re : Senior Transformation Program Lead

Owning the end-to-end delivery of discrete transformation initiatives, then moving to the next one once BAU is ready to run it alone: that cycle of diagnostic, execution and clean handover sits at the center of this role, and it is exactly where I've spent my career operating.

At CNP Assurances, I rebuilt investment accounting production under Solvency II constraints for a 350bn€ book, delivering in 18 months, on time, with Finance, Actuarial and IT all reconciled on the same operating model. On system transformation, I've taken SimCorp Dimension and Clearwater Analytics implementations from design through to live production, writing the cahiers des charges, running UAT, and structuring the account clearing that lets operations teams take over without me. That last part matters here: I don't consider a program finished until the people running it day-to-day have the documentation, controls and metrics to sustain it themselves.

I've led these programs as the accountable structuring mind, coordinating cross-functional teams rather than formally managing headcount as direct reports. If this role requires someone who has built and appraised a team of analysts from scratch, that's a gap worth naming.

Happy to walk through specifics on a call if useful.
