

Xavier Robitaille · xro@xavier-robitaille.com · +33 6 64 89 09 43

I bring 25 years of insurance and finance experience directly aligned with what SimCorp needs: proven ability to coordinate complex onboarding programs across distributed teams, manage stakeholder expectations under delivery pressure, and translate business requirements into executable plans. My background delivering large-scale transformation programs means I understand how to structure communication, anticipate bottlenecks, and keep multiple workstreams synchronized—exactly what an Onboarding Stream Lead role demands.

Over the past three years, I've led similar programs: redesigning finance operating models for mid-market insurers, managing cross-functional delivery across product, operations, and IT teams, and building governance frameworks that kept stakeholders aligned through high-complexity implementations. Most relevant: I've coordinated testing and integration workstreams involving external vendors and internal teams simultaneously, maintained risk reporting discipline, and translated technical constraints into client communication. These aren't theoretical skills—they're what made programs land on time.

I'm based in France and would relocate to Warsaw for the right opportunity. I work best in roles where clarity, execution discipline, and judgment matter more than seniority theater. SimCorp's growth phase and focus on client success align with where I add real value.

I'd welcome a conversation about how my experience landing complex programs can support your expansion. You can reach me at xro@xavier-robitaille.com or +33 6 64 89 09 43 to discuss timing and fit.