Dear Hiring Manager,

I bring 25 years of finance and insurance expertise directly into the regulatory advisory space Deloitte serves. My value: I bridge the gap between technical accounting/regulatory complexity and operational execution—the exact tension senior financial services clients face.

Over the past decade, I've led transformation programmes where accounting standards and regulatory requirements intersect with process redesign. Most recently, I restructured financial reporting processes for a major European insurer, implementing IFRS 17 controls and regulatory reporting frameworks while training teams on compliance implications. For a pan-European asset manager, I designed the CFO office operating model to handle evolving MiFID II and AIFMD requirements. Both projects delivered measurable outcomes: faster month-end closes, reduced audit findings, and scalable governance structures.

What I bring to this role is rare: I don't just know the standards—I've embedded them into live processes under pressure. I've sat in the room with regulators, auditors, and business leaders simultaneously, translating between them. I understand how to make compliance efficient, not just compliant. Your clients need that perspective.

One honest note: I've worked independently for the past five years. I'm looking to return to a structured team environment where I can deepen expertise and contribute to client strategy at scale. Deloitte's Financial Services Advisory practice aligns exactly with where I want to focus.

I'm ready to discuss how my track record in regulatory implementation and process optimization translates directly into client value for your Hamburg office.

Best regards,

Xavier Robitaille
