Dear Hiring Manager,

I'm writing to express interest in the Experienced - Segnalazioni di Vigilanza role at Deloitte Milan. With 25 years in insurance and finance, I bring exactly what this position requires: deep regulatory reporting expertise, operational delivery discipline, and the ability to align technical complexity with business reality.

My background centers on the intersection of finance transformation, regulatory compliance, and program execution—precisely where this role lives. I've spent the last decade building and rebuilding regulatory reporting frameworks for insurers and banks: designing SFCR and RSR processes, defining control matrices across multiple reporting schemes, and managing the technical-to-business translation that prevents breakage between requirement and execution. I've worked with Italian insurance entities on ISVAP/IVASS reporting and with multinational banking operations on Finrep and Corep—so I understand both the granular technical demands and the stakeholder coordination this position demands.

Most relevant: I led a regulatory reporting redesign for a mid-sized European insurer where I coordinated Accounting, Risk, and IT to rebuild their vigilanza reporting pipeline. The result was 40% faster monthly close, zero regulatory findings on audit, and a repeatable control framework that survived three consecutive inspections. I document requirements to implementation rigor—that bridge between "what the regulator needs" and "what the business actually produces" is where I add the most value.

I should be direct about one thing: I've worked as an independent consultant for the last five years. I'm actively seeking structured team environments where my expertise can anchor operational delivery. A hybrid role in Milan where I can build deeper client relationships aligns perfectly with where I want to be.

I'd welcome a conversation about how my reporting systems experience and delivery discipline fit your team's needs.

Best regards,
Xavier Robitaille
