BearingPoint — Regulatory Reporting, Financial Services

18 June 2026

Regulatory reporting in financial services follows the same core logic whether the scope is insurance or banking: parse the framework, map source data to required outputs, own the reconciliation. I've run this cycle for 25 years — primarily on the insurance side, covering IFRS 17, Solvency II QRTs, and ACPR reporting — and read the move toward FINREP/COREP and Basel IV as a domain extension rather than a domain change.

The consulting and project delivery layer is where I add the most. Most recently: 18 months at Clearwater Analytics as Senior Program Manager, running simultaneous go-lives for CCR (CW CORE accounting, OMS/Jump order management, LPx private equity) and Luxempart, with monthly C-suite Sponsor Committees and a RAID log covering 10+ cross-functional dependencies. Before that, 4 years as IFRS 9 Project Manager at Coface, from POC design through production ECL recette with CACEIS. Earlier, I led the Finance stream at AXA P&C across the IFRS 9/17 and Solvency II target operating model.

Three gaps worth naming upfront: banking-prudential reporting (FINREP/COREP, Abacus360) is adjacent to my track record but not in it; my German is professionally limited and not fluent client-facing; and I work as an independent consultant under Expert Zone Advisory SAS, so the commercial arrangement would need to work as a professional services contract rather than a permanent role.

If those points are workable and a hybrid or remote arrangement is on the table, I'm happy to discuss the fit on a call.
