

Xavier Robitaille

xro@xavier-robitaille.com | +33 6 64 89 09 43 | Expert Zone Advisory SAS

Deloitte — Financial Risk Advisory, Germany

18 June 2026

This role lists entry-level requirements. My background runs to 25 years, all in financial services. The gap is the reason to read on.

Deloitte's Financial Risk Advisory practice in Germany advises banks on regulatory reporting (FINREP, COREP, Basel IV), risk frameworks, and tooling optimization (SQL, Python, RPA dashboards). I've operated in adjacent territory throughout my career: IFRS 9 ECL at Coface (4-year mandate, coordinating with CACEIS), Solvency II target operating model at AXA P&C, SCR reporting infrastructure at CNP, and most recently 18 months as Senior Program Manager at Clearwater Analytics managing simultaneous go-lives for two institutional clients.

What a senior profile brings that an entry-level hire won't: the ability to own a complex regulatory mandate from day one, structure client conversations directly, and move from framework interpretation to delivery without ramp-up time. I work under my own consulting entity (Expert Zone Advisory SAS), so the commercial arrangement would be a professional services contract.

The seniority mismatch is real. If the need is specifically a junior resource to develop through Deloitte's career path, this letter is the wrong answer. If there's a mandate or project team that needs senior expertise on the regulatory reporting side — and the posting reflects a standard template — then a conversation makes sense.

Available now. Happy to discuss the specific mandate rather than the job description.

Xavier Robitaille

xro@xavier-robitaille.com | +33 6 64 89 09 43