I bring 25 years of insurance and finance experience to problems where technical depth, regulatory complexity, and execution discipline matter most. I've spent my entire career at the intersection of finance transformation, PMO delivery, and stakeholder alignment—the exact terrain where most initiatives stall.

On a recent mandate, I rebuilt the finance operating model for a €2B+ insurance group: redesigned the closing process (cut cycle time 35%), restructured the actuarial-finance handoff, and embedded new control frameworks across three business lines. The work required simultaneous fluency in accounting rules, actuarial constraints, IT delivery cadence, and C-suite politics. Same complexity you're likely facing.

Before that, I led a multi-year regulatory reporting transformation for a major mutual insurer—migrating legacy systems, training 40+ finance and actuarial staff, and delivering quarterly Solvency II submissions on schedule while the organization was mid-acquisition. Real delivery, real stakes.

I work best as an interim or freelance senior resource where you need someone who doesn't need to be onboarded into the business logic. I move fast, don't require hand-holding, and add most value on high-visibility programmes where clarity and follow-through are make-or-break.

The honest trade: I'm structured as a freelance consultant, not a CDI candidate. If that's a constraint for your process, worth flagging now. If you need someone who can step in, see the real problems, and move the needle—let's talk specifics.
