I bring 25 years of insurance and finance expertise—the kind where technical depth, regulatory complexity, and delivery pressure intersect. I've spent my entire career solving problems that sit at the crossroads of Finance, Actuariat, IT, and Operations, which means I move faster than most when alignment and execution matter.

What I actually do: redesign finance operating models, build PMO discipline into chaos, unblock regulatory reporting bottlenecks, and ship transformations on time. I don't optimize spreadsheets—I fix the systems behind them.

Two recent examples. I led a EUR 50M+ insurance transformation programme as interim Finance Manager, owning the P&L impact across three business lines while coordinating with Risk and Actuariat teams. Closed the books 40% faster by redesigning the closing process, not just automating it. Second: I built the PMO governance for a regulatory reporting system rollout across eight entities in parallel—tracked 120+ workstreams, identified execution risks three months early, delivered on a hard regulatory deadline. That's the work where I add the most value.

I know the gap: you may want permanent, I operate as a senior consultant. That's actually an advantage here if you need someone who hits the ground running without onboarding overhead, or if you want expertise for a defined transformation rather than a headcount decision.
