I bring 25 years in insurance and finance transformation—exactly the depth Mercer needs to scale client relationships across investment solutions. My strength is translating complex investment capabilities into clear client conversations while coordinating across operational, portfolio, and research teams under real time pressure.

At EZA Advisory, I led the PMO for a €2B insurance group's regulatory reporting overhaul, which required daily liaison between Finance, Actuariat, and IT to deliver quarterly compliance output on schedule. That's the same coordination cadence you're describing—managing stakeholders, ensuring timelines, building scalable delivery. I've also spent three years as interim Finance Manager for a mid-market asset servicer, where I owned the CFO office rhythm and trained junior analysts on investment reporting standards. Both roles taught me how to hold investment knowledge in one hand and operational discipline in the other.

What I bring here: I can absorb Mercer's delegated fund structures and investment research quickly—my technical background in financial transformation means I speak that language—and use it to solve real client problems rather than simply explain it. I'm comfortable working across time zones, managing multiple stakeholders, and keeping delivery calendars clean. I work best when expectations are clear and the mission matters.

There's one honest thing: I'm consulting now, not CDI-bound. That's actually an asset for a growth role like this—I bring focus, urgency, and no internal politics. But I want to understand whether this is a position designed to scale toward leadership or to execute a defined mandate.

I'm in Dublin regularly and available to discuss what you're building here.
