I bring 25 years of transformation delivery in banking and insurance—the exact operational DNA Belfius needs for this role.

My value is straightforward: I've spent two decades sitting at the intersection of strategy, process redesign, and execution pressure. I know how to translate a Service Delivery agenda into concrete roadmaps, build governance that actually sticks, and keep stakeholders aligned when priorities shift. I've redesigned closing processes for €200M+ balance sheets, led PMO functions through multi-year tech migrations, and managed pluridisciplinary teams across Finance, Operations, and Risk. More importantly, I know how to arbitrate scope in real time—not theoretically.

Two concrete examples. At a major insurer, I structured and piloted a €15M operational transformation spanning five business lines, delivering 18-month timelines against initial 30-month forecasts by simplifying process design upfront and embedding controls early. For a banking group, I served as interim Finance Manager running the CFO office, where I built the reporting and governance framework that became the foundation for their later platform migration. Both taught me the same lesson: stakeholder clarity and ruthless prioritization matter more than methodology.

The honest gap: I'm currently independent, not in a full-time role. Belfius is asking for someone who can operate at scale within your structure, and I'm asking for the right permanent opportunity. That alignment matters. I'm not looking to be a contractor; I'm ready to fully commit to embedding this transformation agenda inside your organization.

I'd welcome a conversation about how this experience translates to Head of Transformation at CTOO.
