Dear Hiring Manager,

I'm writing to explore the Consultant Insurance / Financial Services role at Deloitte Düsseldorf. With 25 years of hands-on experience exclusively in insurance and finance—spanning audit readiness, regulatory reporting (Solvency II), and financial process transformation—I bring both the technical depth and operational discipline your team needs for complex client mandates.

My value to your practice is straightforward: I reduce execution risk on high-stakes assignments. I've spent the last decade as an interim finance leader and PMO lead for insurers navigating regulatory change, balance sheet optimization, and control framework redesign. On a €800M+ mutual insurer, I led the redesign of year-end closing procedures across Finance, Actuariat, and Operations—cutting cycle time by 35% while embedding IFRS 17 controls ahead of deadline. On another mandate, I supported an insurance group through a Solvency II audit remediation, coordinating between external audit, compliance, and finance teams to close findings on risk reporting and capital adequacy disclosures.

I understand this role is consultant-track, which typically means CDI with a progression path. I'm currently freelance after a decade of intermittent CFO Office assignments. That's not a constraint for me—it's actually how I've stayed sharp and project-focused. But I'm genuinely interested in building something durable with a firm like Deloitte where client complexity matches the intellectual challenge I'm drawn to.

What appeals to me about this opening is the mix: annual audits, regulatory compliance, risk analytics, and cross-functional delivery. That's exactly where I've added the most value. I'm based near Köln and open to Düsseldorf.

I'd welcome a conversation about how I can contribute.

Best regards,

Xavier Robitaille
