Re : Strategic Project Manager (Finance) - Remote

Leading strategic finance projects that need to satisfy senior leadership and regulators at the same time, while building financial models solid enough to justify ROI decisions, takes a specific kind of discipline. Translating budgeting, forecasting, and variance data into decisions executives will act on is harder than it sounds when finance, actuarial, and IT teams do not speak the same language.

At CNP, I rebuilt investment accounting production under Solvency II constraints: 350 billion euros in assets under management, delivered in 18 months, on schedule, with ACPR-level regulatory reporting intact throughout. That meant coordinating actuarial, IT, and finance stakeholders around one data model while keeping IFRS 9 categorization (ECL, amortized cost, sub-ledger accounting) accurate through the migration. On the modeling side, I have built ECL and provisioning models under IFRS 9 that fed directly into feasibility and ROI decisions at CFO level, not just compliance reports. I have also redesigned month-end closing processes to cut cycle time and remove manual reconciliation steps, while keeping compliance with French GAAP, IFRS, and US GAAP standards throughout the transition.

My ERP experience sits in SimCorp Dimension and Clearwater Analytics for investment accounting, not broader platforms like SAP or Oracle Financials.

I would be glad to walk through the CNP program on a short call and how it applies to your reporting infrastructure.
