Dear Aon Benelux,

I bring 25 years in insurance and finance transformation—the exact mix your Transformation Lead role needs. My value isn't in generic change management; it's in bridging the gap between technical complexity, regulatory constraint, and delivery pressure that defines your sector.

I've led cross-border programmes with the same DNA as this role: orchestrating dependent projects across business lines and geographies, managing without formal authority in matrix environments, owning end-to-end scope and value realization. At a major insurer, I redesigned the finance operating model across three countries—built governance from scratch, set programme milestones tied to actual cost-benefit outcomes, and reported directly to the CFO office while coordinating with IT, actuarial, and operations. The programme delivered €8M in annual savings and reset control frameworks. That's the kind of complexity and stakeholder alignment I move in fluently.

I also know how to work with Global Capability Centers. I've delegated execution while maintaining visibility and risk escalation discipline—exactly what your GCC Kraków partnership requires. My default mode is clarity: clear objectives, visible dependencies, honest forecasting.

One real gap: I'm currently independent (Expert Zone Advisory). I've consulted at senior level across finance and transformation, but I'm looking to anchor into a mission-driven organization where I can stay for the long term. Aon's Benelux transformation office feels like that place.

I'd welcome a conversation about how I can shape your international programmes into concrete results. I'm available at your convenience.

Best regards,
Xavier Robitaille
